REDUCTION FOURTH IN PRICES—OR NOTHING.

An article of every family must consider indispensable, when they know its power and value and which has heretofore been sold too high to bring it to all classes, has now been reduced to its lowest price, with a view that rich and poor, high and low, and in fact every human being may enjoy its comforts; and all who get it shall have the price returned to them if they are not delighted with its use. We assert, without the possibility of contradiction, that all burns and scalds, every external sore, all fresh, and all external pains and aches, no matter where, shall be reduced to comfort by its five minutes—saving life, limb or scar. No burn can be fatal if this is applied, unless the vital are destroyed by the accident. It is truly magical, in appearance, in its effects. Enquire for "Connell's Magical Pain Extractor," at Comstock & Co's, 21 Cornhill street. Price 25 cents, or four times as much for 50 cents, and ten times as much for $1.

THE SICK HEADACHE.

THIS DISEASE is one from which arises more misery to the human family than is generally supposed; it being directly fatal, it is often neglected, or persons resort so much to the use of purgatives and other medicines as to impair their general health, and often induce fatal diseases. The article—Dr. Spohn's HEADACHE REMEDY, now offered, seems to have overcome these difficulties. While its effects are most powerful and immediate in curing an attack or keeping it off, it is so perfectly mild and innocent as to be used for infants with the greatest effect and safety. This has now been tested by so many of the highest members of this community as to require no further proof.

PATENT MILL WHEELS.

THE Subscriber having for a long time given his attention to the construction and operation of Water Wheels, has finally succeeded in the invention of two kinds of Wheels for which he has received Letters Patent from the Government of the United States.

These Wheels are simple in their construction, cheap and durable, are easily put in operation, and are not liable like most other wheels to get out of order; they are not obstructed by back water, when the head is not diminished thereby; and the same power and speed is obtained, with about one half the quantity of water usually applied to wheels now in general use.

A great number of these Wheels are now in operation and give in all cases entire satisfaction; and for further information respecting them the following gentlemen are referred to, all of whom have some of said wheels in operation: Jacob Drummond, James B. Fiske, Amos Davis and Leonard March, Esqrs., Messrs. Fiske & Norcross, Foster & Gilman, S. P. & H. Strickland, W. T. & H. Peirre & Co. Bangor; Hon. J. S. Little, Portland; Hon. John Otis, Hallowell; F. A. Butman, Esquire, Dixmont; Robert Treat Geo. A. Peirre, Esquires, Frankfort; Daniel Dennett, Esq. Milo; Col. Henry Orne, Milton; Messrs. Fiske & Bridge, Milford; Ira Wadleigh, Esq. Oldtown; Capt. R. Fittz, Dedham; John Black and John M. Hale, Esqrs. Ellsworth; Messrs. A. Campbell & Co. Cherryfield; Daniel Harwood, Esq. Machias; Levi L. Lowell, Calais.

The above wheels are manufactured and for sale at the Iron Foundries of MESSRS. HINCKLEY & EGERY and FRANKLIN MUZZY & Co. in this city, who are furnished with a great variety of patterns, so that Wheels of any particular description, or adapted to any given head of water, can be furnished at short notice. They are also authorized to dispose of the Patent Right for the same.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE TIGER'S CAVE.

AN ADVENTURE AMONG THE MOUNTAINS OF QUITO.

On leaving the Indian village, we continued to wind round Chimborazo's wide base, but its snow crowned head no longer shone above us in clear brilliancy, for a dense fog was gathering gradually around it. Our guides looked anxiously towards it, and announced their apprehensions of a violent storm. We soon found that their fears were well founded. The fog rapidly covered and obscured the whole of the mountain; the atmosphere was suffocating, and yet so humid that the steel work of our watches was covered with rust, and the watches stopt. The river beside which we were traveling, rushed down with still greater impetuosity; and from the delta of the rocks which lay on the left of our path, were suddenly precipitated small rivulets that bore the roots of trees, and innumerable serpents, along with them. These rivulets often came down so suddenly and violently, that we had great difficulty in preserving our footing. The thunder at length began to roll, and resounded through the mountainous passes with the most terrific grandeur. Then came the vivid lightning—flash followed flash—above, around, beneath—every where a sea of fire. We sought a momentary shelter in a cleft in the rocks, whilst one of our guides hastened forward to seek a more secure asylum. In a short time he returned, and informed us that he had discovered a spacious cavern, which would afford us sufficient protection from the elements. We proceeded thither immediately, and, with great difficulty, and not a little danger, at last got into it.

The noise and raging of the storm continued with so much violence, that we could not hear the sound of our voices. I had placed myself near the entrance of the cave, and could observe through the opening, which was straight and narrow, the singular scene without. The highest cedar trees were struck down, or bent like reeds—monkeys and parrots lay strewn upon the ground, killed by the falling branches—the water had collected in the path we had just passed, and hurried along it like a mountain stream. From every thing I saw, I thought it extremely probable that we should be obliged to pass some days in this cavern. When the storm, however, had somewhat abated, our guides ventured out in order to ascertain if it were possible to continue our journey. The cave in which we had taken refuge was so extremely dark, that it was a few paces from this entrance, we could not see an inch before us; and we were debating as to the propriety of leaving it before the Indians came back, when we suddenly heard a singular grating or growling at the further end of the cavern, which instantly fixed all our attention. Wharton and myself listened anxiously, but our daring and inconsiderate young friend Lincoln, together with my huntsman, crept about on their hands and knees, and endeavoring to discover by groping, from whence the sound proceeded. They had not advanced far into the cavern, before we could hear them utter an exclamation of surprise; and they returned to us, each carrying in his arms an animal singularly marked, and about the size of a cat, seemingly of great strength and power, and furnished with immense fangs. The eyes were of a green color; strong claws were upon the feet, and blood red tongues hung out of their mouths. Wharton and I scarcely glanced at them, when he exclaimed, in consternation—"Good heavens! have we come into the den of a—"

He was interrupted by a fearful cry of dismay from our guides, who came rushing precipitately towards us, calling out—"A tiger, a tiger!" and at the same time, with extraordinary rapidity, they climbed up a cedar tree which stood at the entrance of the cave, and hid themselves among the branches.

After the first sensation of horror and surprise, which rendered me motionless for a moment, had subsided, I grasped my fire arm. Wharton had already gained his composure and self-possession, and he called to us to assist him instantly in blocking up the mouth of the cave with an immense stone, which fortunately lay near it. The sense of approaching danger augmented our strength, for we now distinctly heard the growl of the ferocious animal, and we were lost beyond redemption if it reached the entrance before we could get it closed. Ere we had done this we could distinctly see the tiger bounding towards the spot, and stooping in order to creep into his den by the narrow opening. At this fearful moment our exertions were successful, and the great stone kept the wild beast at bay. There was a small open space left between the entrance and the stone, through which we could see the head of the animal, illuminated by its glowing eyes, which it rolled glaring with fury upon us. Its frightful roaring, too, penetrated the depth of the cavern, and was answered by the hoarse growling of the cubs, which Lincoln and Frank had now tossed from them. Our ferocious enemy attempted first to remove the stone with its powerful claws, and then to push it with its head from its place; and these efforts proving abortive, served only to increase his wrath. He uttered a tremendous heart-piercing howl, and its flaming eyes darted light into the darkness of our retreat.

"Now is the time to fire at him," said Wharton with his usual calmness: "aim at his eyes—the ball will go through his brain, and we shall then have a chance to get rid of him."

Frank seized his double-barrelled gun, and Lincoln his pistols—the former placing the muzzle within a few inches of the tiger, and Lincoln did the same. At Wharton's command they both drew their triggers at the same moment, but no shot followed. The tiger, who seemed aware that the flash indicated an attack upon him, sprang growling from the entrance, but, upon feeling himself unhurt, immediately turned back again, and stationed himself in his former place. The powder in both pieces was wet, they therefore proceeded to draw the useless loading, while Wharton and myself hastened to seek our powder flask. It was so extremely dark that we were obliged to grope about the cave, and at last, coming in contact with the cubs, we heard a rustling noise as if they were playing with some metal anvil, which we soon discovered was the canister we were looking for. Most unfortunately, however, the animals had pushed off the lid with their claws, and the powder had been strewn over the damp earth, and rendered entirely useless. This horrible discovery excited the greatest consternation.

"All is now over," said Wharton. "We have only now to choose whether we shall die of hunger, together with these animals who are shut up along with us, or open the entrance to the blood-thirsty monster without and make a quicker end of the matter."

So saying, he placed himself close beside the stone, which, for a moment defended us, and looked undauntedly upon the lightning eyes of the tiger. Lincoln raved and swore, and Frank took a piece of strong cord from his pocket, and hastened to the farther end of the cave. I knew not with what design. We soon however, heard a low, stifled growling, and the tiger, who had heard it also, became more restless than ever—He went backwards and forwards before the entrance of the cave in the most wild and impetuous manner, he stood still, and stretched out his neck in the direction of the forest, broke forth into a deafening howl. Our two Indian guides took advantage of this opportunity to discharge several arrows from the tree. He was struck more than once, but the light weapons bounded back harmless from his thick skin. At length, however, one of them struck him near the eye, and the arrow remained sticking in the wound. He now broke anew into the wildest fury, sprang at the tree, and tore it with his claws, as if he would have dragged it to the ground. But having at length succeeded in getting rid of the arrow, he became more calm, and laid himself down as before in front of the cave.

Frank now returned from the lower end of the den, and a glance showed us what he had been doing. In each hand, and dangling from the end of a string, were the two cubs. He had strangled them; and before we were aware what he intended, he threw them through the opening to the tiger. No sooner did the animal perceive than he gazed earnestly upon them, and began to observe them closely, turning them cautiously from side to side. As soon as he became aware that they were dead, he uttered so piercing a howl of sorrow, that we were obliged to put our hands to our ears. When I upbraided my huntsman for the cruel action he had so rashly committed, I perceived by the blunt and abrupt answers that he also had lost all hopes of rescue from our impending fate, and that under these circumstances, the ties between master were dissolved. For my own part, without knowing why, I could not help believing that some unexpected assistance would yet rescue us from so horrible a fate. Alas! I little anticipated the sacrifice that my rescue was to cost.

The thunder had now ceased, and the storm had sunk to a gentle gale—the songs of the birds were again heard in the neighboring forest—and the sunbeams sparkled in the drops that hung from the leaves. We saw through the aperture how all nature was reviving after the wild war of elements which had so recently taken place; but the contrast only made our situation the more horrible. We were in a grave from which there was no deliverance, and a monster, worse than the fabled Cerberus, kept watch over us. The tiger had laid himself down beside his whelps. He was a beautiful animal, of great size and strength, and his limbs being stretched out at their full length, displayed his immense power of muscle. A double row of large teeth stood far enough apart to show his large red tongue, from which the white foam fell in large drops. All at once, another roar was heard at a distance, and the tiger immediately rose and answered it with a mournful howl. At the same instant, our Indians uttered a shriek, which announced that some new danger threatened us. A few moments confirmed our worst fears, for another tiger, not quite so large as the former, came rapidly towards the spot where we were.

This enemy will prove more cruel than the other, for this is the female and she knows no pity for those who deprive her of her young."

The howls which the tigress gave when she had examined the bodies of her cubs, surpassed every thing of the horrible that we had ever heard of the tiger mingled his mournful cries with hers. Suddenly her roaring was lowered to a hoarse growling, and we saw her anxiously stretch out her head, extend her wide nostrils, and look as if she were determined to discover immediately the murderers of her young. Her eyes quickly fell upon us, and she made a spring forward with the intention of penetrating to our place of refuge. Perhaps she might have been enabled, by her immense strength, to push away the stone, had we not, with all our united strength, held it against her. When she found that all her efforts were fruitless, she approached the tiger who lay stretched besides his cubs, and he rose and joined her hollow roarings. They stood together for a few moments, as if in consultation, and then suddenly went off at a rapid pace, and disappeared from our sight. Their howling died away in the distance, and then entirely ceased. We now began to entertain better hopes of our condition, but Wharton shook his head. "Do not flatter yourselves," said he, "with the belief that these animals will let us escape out of their sight, till they have had their revenge. The hours we have to live are numbered."

Nevertheless, there still appeared a chance of our rescue, for to our surprise, we saw both our Indians standing at the entrance, and heard them call to us to seize the possibility of our yet saving ourselves by instant flight, for that the tigers had only gone round the height to seek another inlet to the cave, with which they were no doubt acquainted. In the greatest haste the stone was pushed aside, and we stepped forth from what we had considered a living grave. Wharton was the last who left it; he was unwilling to lose his double-barrelled gun, and stopped to take it up. The rest of us thought only of making our escape. We now heard once more the roar of tigers, though at a distance, and following the examples of our guides, we precipitately stuck into a side path. From the number of roots and branches of trees with which the storm had strewn our way, and the slipperiness of the rock, our flight was slow and difficult. Wharton, though an active woman, had a heavy step, and great difficulty in keeping pace with us, and we were obliged to slacken our own on his account.

possessed by Bangor was the means it had over other places of converting labor into money. This natural advantage of a healthful climate, easy and cheap transportation, raw material &c should lead the young men of Maine to prepare themselves for labor and business at home instead of chasing fortune away from home and friends. Our manufacturing here has but just commenced but it may be increased indefinitely according to the enterprise skill and energy of our people.

Repeal Meeting.

On Wednesday evening last there was a large meeting of the Bangor Repeal Association, at the City Hall. The meeting was called to order by Michael Boyce, President of the Association, and two receivers were appointed to register names, and the amount of money received. The President briefly alluded to the objects of the meeting, and then called upon Mr M. Crowley to explain more fully the design of the meeting. Mr Crowley responded to the call, and in an eloquent speech gave a graphic picture of the objects of the meeting, and of the fact that on this day millions of Repealers and their patriotic and sympathizing friends were assembled in every city and town in the United States—throughout Ireland and throughout the world, to send up their united voices against the wrongs inflicted upon the Irish people by means of the legislative act of Union; and to throw into the treasury the pledges of their sympathy to the cause in the shape of means to carry on the movement to a successful issue. He contrasted the past and present condition of the Irish people, and pointed out the mischief working effects of the Union. It was a speech of great excellence and power.

A call was then made upon the editor of the Whig, who answered to the call by a few brief remarks. The meeting was further addressed by Nathaniel Hatch, Esq., Moses L. Appleton, Esq., Henry E. Pientiss, Esq., H. D. Cushing, Esq., Capt. Ephraim Moulton, Mr. Patrick Crogan and Mr. M. Crowley, in answer to calls made upon them by the meeting. We learn that between twenty and thirty dollars were collected.

The meeting was one of great interest, and there was an earnest and patriotic spirit breathing in the remarks made by the several gentlemen, and, with the exception of what we said, we have rarely listened to better speaking upon this cause. We trust the Repealers of this city may take new courage in their enterprise, and rely, as heretofore, upon the moral force of public opinion, for the final success of their cause.

¶ We learn with extreme regret that several boys in our city have recently engaged in the debasing and ruinous vice of gambling. Could they see the awful end to which such a course of conduct, must, if persisted in, inevitably lead, they would shun it as a habit most of all to be shunned, and dreaded. Thousands of active minded men who might have been ornaments to the world—doers of good to humanity, and in the constant enjoyment of happiness themselves, have gone down to degradation and darkness, to stupidity and ruin—their influence a blight upon society, and their peace forever lost in fretful excitement, or buried in intoxication. A multitude of vices cluster about the vice of gambling; indeed every vice is a breeder of others, but this seems to be highly prolific. We would interpose an earnest caution to our young men against gambling—the excitement of it is shortlived and delusive, while it unfits the mind for the proper enjoyment of the realities of life, blunts the conscience, and debases and corrupts the heart.

¶ A correspondent of the "Richmond Enquirer," who states that he has ever been an ardent friend of Mr Van Buren, and voted for him for President in 1840, thinks it would be unwise to nominate him again for President. He says, "I entertain no unkind feeling towards my brother Democrats, who may differ with me in their first choice, for, if I did, I would not be a Democrat; but I do fear, that if Mr Van Buren's friends do hold on to him so fast as they do at present, and he should, through the partiality of the delegates, get the nomination in Convention, another defeat awaits us, more appalling than the last, in 1844."

REMOVAL.

The Whig and Courier Office has been removed to the spacious room in the second story of the Kenduskeag Market.

Mr Norcross's Lecture—Lumbering—Lumbering Resources &c.

Mr Norcross remarked that Bangor was the largest lumbering market in the world. Lumber, he said, was our great article of trade and furnishes at least nineteen twentieths of our exports, the whole of which are about $2,000,000 per annum. It is often remarked that most of the money received for lumber goes out of the State to pay for supplies, &c., this Mr N. said was a great mistake, as any one could discover who would carefully examine the subject.—There were engaged in business in some way connected with Lumbering and its preparation for market, on the Penobscot river, about four thousand men who work at least eight months in a year in this business. These are mostly young men belonging to Maine. For the purpose of showing the cost of producing lumber and the channels through which payments are made the lecturer threw the whole matter into a tabular form in round numbers, thus:

400 men employed 8 mos. each at 75 cts. per day	624,000
Stampage of timber.	400,000
Mill rent of all kinds	100,000
Board of men at 25c. per day	208,000
8000 tons of Hay at $20 in the woods	160,000
40,000 Bush. Corn for Oxen $1, in the woods	40,000
Labor of Oxen and utensils of all kinds	60,000
Lockage on logs	10,000
Boonage on logs	40,000
Survey of Boards and Timber	30,000
	$1672,000
Of this sum, he said it might be estimated, there went out of the State,
For Stampage	$100,000
" Mill rent	10,000

From this statement it will be seen that a large proportion of the proceeds of lumber is distributed over the State. And probably quite as large a proportion in the lumbering on other rivers in the State is distributed to citizens of the State.

As to the diminution of pine timber the lecturer stated that as this lessened in quantity and deteriorated in quality other kinds of lumber will take its place and the amount of sales, he thought, would not be diminished but probably increased. It was stated that lumber from Bangor was frequently taken to Nahuan N. H. and articles manufactured from it sent to Boston at an expense of about eight dollars a thousand. If the business would afford the expense of this freight it was suggested that the manufacture could better be carried on here. The great advantage

Legislature of Maine.

In convention of the Members elect to the Senate.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 3, 1844.

The Convention was called to order by Mr. Atwood, of Penobscot, on whose motion Mr. Frye of Oxford was appointed Chairman.

Mr Atwood laid upon the table the following Proclamation, which was read from the Chair, State of Maine.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS it is provided by the Constitution, that "whenever the office of Governor shall be vacated by death, resignation, or otherwise, the President of the Senate shall exercise the office of Governor until another Governor shall be duly qualified; and in case of the death, resignation, removal from office or other disqualification of the President of the Senate, so exercising the office of Governor, the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall exercise the office, until a President of the Senate shall have been chosen."

And whereas the Hon. EDWARD KAVANAGH, President of the Senate, exercising the office of Governor, having communicated to the Secretary of State his resignation as member of the Senate of Maine, to take effect on the first day of January, instant, and on that day he should vacate the Executive Chair, in pursuance of which, DAVID DUNN, Speaker of the House of Representatives, has this day, by virtue of his said office, and in pursuance of the provisions of the Constitution, entered upon the duties of Governor of Maine, and all his acts and commands as such should be obeyed.

Given under my hand, at Augusta, this second day of January, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and forty-four.

PHILLIP C. JOHNSON, Sec'y of State.

On motion of Mr Atwood of Penobscot, Ordered, That a message be sent to the acting Governor, to inform him that a quorum of the Senators elect are now assembled in the Senate Chamber, and are ready to take and subscribe the oaths prescribed by the Constitution.

Mr A. was directed to bear this message, and having attended to the duty assigned him, reported that the Governor was pleased to say that he would attend forthwith for the purpose of qualifying the Senators elect to enter upon their official duties.

The Governor then came in attended by the Council and the Sheriff of Kennebec, and administered the oaths of office required by the Constitution.

The Governor having retired, on motion of Mr Brooks of York,

Ordered, That a Committee of three be appointed, to receive, sort and count the votes for President of the Senate. The Committee having attended to that duty, reported—

Whole number of votes,	24
Necessary to choice,	13
John W. Dana had	21
Edward Swan	3
Ezekiel Holmes	1

This report was accepted and John W. Dana declared duly elected.

Mr Dana, on taking the Chair, addressed the Senate as follows—

Senators—Allow me to tender to you my thanks for the distinguished evidence you have afforded me of your confidence and favor, by imposing upon me the honorable and responsible duty of presiding over your deliberations.

I can bring to my aid in this position, but little knowledge of parliamentary law; and no experience in presiding over deliberative assemblies. And in accepting it, I rely upon your better knowledge and experience to correct my errors; and your courtesy and kindness to forgive them.

For the honor conferred upon me, I promise you—the only substantial return I can make—the devotion of my best energies, to aid you in bringing to a speedy termination your official labors, in such a manner as may be acceptable to your constituents—satisfactory to your conscience and approved by your God.

Jesse Haskell of Portland was elected Secretary, and appointed James O. L. Foster of Lewiston assistant Secretary of the Senate.

The usual messages were sent giving information of the organization of the Senate and that the Office of Governor devolved on John W. Dana who would immediately enter on the discharge of that duty.

Wm. Frye was elected Prot. prot. of the Senate.

Ebenezer S. Patten was chosen Messenger of the Senate; and engaged Carver B. Nesmith as his Assistant.

Rev. John H. Ingraham was elected Chaplain to the Senate.

The Secretary of State came in and laid upon the table a communication from Edw. Kavanagh, Governor of the State, in relation to "A Bill, entitled an Act increasing the jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace, in Civil Actions, and establishing Courts of trial, in each city, town, and plantation in this State;" with his objections to its becoming a law.

The votes for Governor and Senators were referred to Committees—the Rules and Orders were adopted, and the Senate adj. to meet the next day at ten o'clock.

IN CONVENTION OF THE MEMBERS ELECT OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, January 3, 1844.

At 10 o'clock, A. M. the Convention was called to order by Mr Wellington of Monticello on whose nomination Mr Allen, of Alfred, was chosen chairman.

The Chairman then read the Proclamation made in the Senate.

A quorum of members were reported and qualified.

William T. Johnson was chosen Clerk, and presided over the House.

David Dunn was elected Speaker, and addressed the House very briefly.

James C. Madigan was elected Assistant Clerk.

Philip Phillips was elected Messenger. The votes for Governor were referred to a committee, and the House adjourned.

¶ The Washington Standard, in reference to the withdrawal of Mr Buchanan's name from the Presidential campaign, remarks that the movement may be looked upon "as a maneuver to secure the electoral vote of the Keystone State for one whom Pennsylvania dislikes, not to say, abhors. It has all the outward marks of a "coalition"—of a political bargain, by which the honest yeomanry of that State are to be sold, set off, alienated, released, and transferred to the Little Magician. What the consideration is to be, time may, perhaps, develop—probably a better chance of Mr Buchanan for the succession—Mr Benton willing; perhaps a seat in the Cabinet, or the mission to England—nay, perhaps both; the property transferred is valuable—twenty-six votes may turn the scale and secure the Presidency to Mr. Van Buren. There is one thing however to be remembered—the bargain is inchoate until ratified by the people."

¶ Tobacco, in any shape, is better out of your mouth or nose than in it.

From the Frankfort (Ky.) Commonwealth.
"Col. Johnson passed through this place on Saturday last, on his way home. We understand he says nothing can prevent Mr Clay's election but the running of himself."

This coincides with the opinion of the editor of the Harrisburg Argus, a Locofoco paper of the thorough-bred stamp, except that its first choice is Mr Cass. The editor says:

"Mr Clay can certainly carry the following States against Mr Van Buren—Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, North Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan." This will give the Whig candidate one hundred and thirty-two votes. Add to this number the vote of Pennsylvania, which is twenty-six, and Clay has twenty more than are required to make him President."

¶ Hon. Robert H. Gardiner has presented the Gardiner Mechanic Association with $25 to aid its Library—and has also presented the members with the gratuitous use of the room which they occupied during the years 1841 and 1842, which essentially aided in establishing the society. A vote of thanks has been passed by them for his liberality.

Massachusetts Congressional Elections.

Elections to fill the vacancies in the 3d, 6th and 7th Representative Districts in Massachusetts, were held on Monday.

We have returns from only six towns in the Third District, which give Abbott (Whig) 1637, Mansur (Loco) 1135, Scattering—mostly for Whittier (Abolition) 436. It is presumed that no choice has been effected.

¶ The mail arrived last evening about half past nine o'clock, but brought nothing from beyond Portland. The Rail Road was blocked up with snow.

Sentiment.

"Behold, my Flora, how glorious Nature looks in her bloom! The trees are filled with blossoms, the wood is dressed in its green livery, and the plain is carpeted with grass and flowers."

"Yes, Charles, I was thinking of the same thing. These flowers are dandelions, and when they are gathered and put into a pot, with a piece of good fat pork, they make the best greens in the world."

DR. TAYLOR'S BALSAM OF LIVERWORT. PRICE REDUCED.

DR. TAYLOR'S Balsam of Liverwort, from 375 Bowery, New York—for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Catarrhs, Asthma, Soreness of the Chest, Pain in the side and Breast, raising of Blood, Liver complaint, Bronchitis, and all those affections of Throat and Lungs which are a source of so much suffering and unrest, so often terminate in Consumption—this remedy is highly and justly distinguished. It is purely vegetable, mild and gentle in its effects upon the system, and can be taken in the most delicate cases, with safety as well as utility. Physicians, aware of its medicinal properties, and witnessing its effects even in extreme and in some instances apparently almost hopeless cases, often prescribe it in their practice, both as a palliative and a remedy, and with the Medical Faculty generally it has met with great approbation.

CONSUMPTION.—The following remarks were taken from the last number of the Medical Magazine: "The surprising effect produced by the genuine Dr. Taylor's Balsam of Liverwort, made at 375 Bowery, in consumptive cases, cannot fail exciting a deep and thrilling interest throughout the world. We have so long considered this disease (consumption) incurable, that it is difficult to credit our senses when we see persons, evidently consumptive, restored to health. Yet it is a fact of daily occurrence."

Certificates from the highest and most respectable sources, or persons who have been either greatly relieved by it, or entirely recovered from affections of the Lungs and Liver, could be furnished in abundance, but we insert only the following.

Liver Complaint and General Debility. I was given up by two physicians, and told to prepare for death. I was so weak I could not raise my hand to my head. I was in this low state, when a friend sent me a bottle of Dr. Taylor's Balsam of Liverwort, from 375 Bowery, and before I had used up the bottle, I was able to sit up in bed. By the further use I have completely regained my health. GEO. WELLS, 23 John-st.

For a common cold and cough, this is one of the very best remedies ever discovered.

N. B. There is a spurious and counterfeit article afloat; therefore be careful to get the genuine, which is from 375 Bowery, N. Y., and is for sale by G. W. LADD, Agent, Bangor.

ORR'S PATENT AIR-TIGHT STOVE.

A VERDICT having been rendered at a present session of the Court in favor of the patent, this is to inform the public, that I am now prepared to sell the right for making and vending the Air-Tight Stove. All stoves made by my patent will have my name, with the date of my invention upon them, and accompanied with a printed receipt for setting and using the same, signed by myself or my general agent at Boston. Plates and the right for making and vending the Stoves, can be purchased of myself at No. 3, Merchants Row, Boston, and of Henry A. Wood, Bangor.

Stoves of good quality and well made can be purchased at fair prices, in Bangor, of Henry A. Wood.

CAUTION.

To protect the public against the imposition that has been practiced in filling the market with Stoves manufactured in the most imperfect manner and of the Air-Tight Stove, thereby injuring the character authorized to make the same without giving any guaranty of its faithfulness. Persons making, vending or using my Stove without authority, will not be prosecuted.

ISAAC ORR, Esq. Bangor.

AIR-TIGHT STOVES.

ORR'S PATENT.

NOTICE is given to all persons that at a term held at Boston, Jan. Justice Story on Friday the 29th of Dec. 1843, on the application of Isaac Orr, Patentee, against Leonidas V. Badger for a violation of the plaintiff's patent for the Air-Tight Stove, granted an injunction until the further order of the Court.

NOTICE.

TO MANUFACTURERS OF AIR-TIGHT STOVES.

THE subscriber has been appointed agent for the sale of rights to make, vend and use Orr's Patent Air-Tight Stove, all East of the Kennebec river, and is now ready to supply all manufacturers with the necessary authority, by their compliance with the condition of the Patentee.
